

FAQs for attending BANDALOOOP's FIELD

Is the performance free to attend?

Yes, Flux Projects events and projects are always free and open to the public. No tickets or advance registration required for the performance featuring BANDALOOOP.

How long is the performance?

Performances are scheduled to begin punctually at 5:30pm and will last 35 minutes. We suggest arriving 30 minutes prior to performance time to get comfortably situated.

Where may I view the performance?

On the grassy area of the Beltline located between the 725 building and Ponce City Market. Volunteers will be stationed to guide you into the area.

Please note: The Beltline is an active space with people walking and biking. We ask you to please view from the grassy area in order to avoid blocking pedestrian traffic along the Beltline path.

Will there be chairs? What may I bring to sit on?

Please bring a blanket. There will be a designated area with limited seating for those who have difficulty sitting on the ground.

Is the performance wheelchair accessible?

Yes, there will be a designated area for people using wheelchairs adjacent to the main Flux Projects info table, but people using wheelchairs may view from wherever in the area is comfortable to them.

ADA accessible parking is located in the 725 Ponce parking deck and at Ponce City Market.

What is your Covid protocol?

Flux Projects is following CDC guidelines. The event is entirely outside. While masks are not required, they are suggested as we expect strong attendance.

We kindly ask that attendees are respectful of others as regards spacing between individuals and groups in the grassy viewing area.

Please do not attend if you have a temperature, have tested positive for Covid or have recently been exposed to someone who has Covid.
