

Braiding Time, Memory and Water Artists

Sue Schroeder | Choreographer

In over 40 years of work in the arts, Sue Schroeder has created more than 110 original dance works for theaters, museums, green spaces, architectural works, and water environments. Her work has appeared throughout the United States, as well as Mexico, Israel, France, Germany, Poland, Georgia, Slovenia, Czech Republic, Iceland, United Kingdom, Sweden, Canada, Guatemala, and Hungary. Schroeder's multidisciplinary vision has led to collaborations with major voices in dance, music, spoken word, visual arts and design.

Additionally, Schroeder is recognized as a leading Arts Activist and Mentor and the Founding Artistic Director of Core Dance. As a contemporary artist and Dance Maker, Schroeder focuses on the creative process, movement research & exploration, and dance-making as a catalyst for social change.

Under the umbrella of Core Dance, Schroeder facilitated the creation of DanceATL, a dance service organization that nurtures and promotes dance as a vibrant part of Atlanta's arts ecosystem. DanceATL connects artists to resources, grows and engages audiences in the city, and supports the full range of the industry by cultivating an awareness and appreciation of dance that is sustainable and expansive.

Schroeder holds a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Houston and earned her Master of Fine Arts in Theater Arts with a dance and anthropology concentration from the University of Arizona at Tucson. Educated under dance greats Bill Evans, Hanya Holm, Oliver Kostock, Anna Halprin, Isa Bergsohn and John M. Wilson, she holds certifications throughout the U.S. as a Teaching Artist and is a founding member of the Teacher Training Institute (TTI), a training program established to develop best practices to teach dance and kinetic learning in community-based settings.

In Mexico, he is an honorary member of the National System of Art Creators, he represented his country before the UNESCO at the International Composers Rostrum and was considered by the Mexico City cultural website as one of the 7 most recognized national artists worldwide. In 2021 he was awarded with the "Trajectory Award", given by the Composers Society of Mexico (SACM) for 25 years of uninterrupted and successful career as a composer, and in 2023 he was appointed as Cultural Ambassador of the "Global Network of Learning Cities" also by the UNESCO as a recognition for his work with children and youth orchestras.

He is founder and artistic director of the Mal'Akh Ensemble and the Vórtice Ensemble and Orchestra, formations of flexible instrumentation where he combines chamber music with all kinds of musical genres and collaborates with composers and performers from all over the world. With both projects he has extensively toured and recorded, and has received several grants, prizes, and recognitions. He is also the musical director of the ONIX Ensemble (oldest ongoing contemporary music ensemble in Latin America), and he has recently been appointed as the musical director and conductor of the orchestra of the “Estudios Churubusco”, main film studios in Latin America, to oversee all film music projects and new music recordings at this historical institution.

His music has been commissioned and performed in more than 40 countries in some of the most important theaters, concert halls, venues, and festivals, and is included in more than 30 discographic productions worldwide including orchestral pieces, operas, chamber music, solo pieces, electronic works, and music for films, dance, video, and multimedia installations. He has been as well invited as resident composer, teacher and guest lecturer to conservatories, universities, and institutions all over the world.

He is also artist in residence at the SETI Institute (Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence) in California, where he founded and directed “The Earthling Project”, which consisted on a compilation of human voices from all over the world that created a sonic legacy representing the sounds of humanity and was sent into space on January 8th 2024 as part of the “Peregrine” mission by the Space Agency Astrobotic in collaboration with NASA and then landed on the moon on February 22nd with the Odysseus lander in collaboration with Space X.

Alajandro Abarco | Movement Artist

Alejandro (Alex) Abarca is an artistic alchemist from Houston, Texas. His artistic journey began when he started dancing in his grandmother’s living room at a family function. This later manifested into an interest in musical theater and led him to graduate from Houston’s High School for the Performing and Visual Arts as a theater major. He found his way back to dancing while studying at the University of Houston. He had the pleasure of working with many Houston area choreographers, and after graduation he moved to Atlanta to dance professionally for Core Performance Company from 2009-2012. During that time, he worked with many Atlanta dance-makers. He, then, continued his dance training at the NYU’s Tisch School of the Arts and earned his MFA in 2016. There he performed in the works of Sean Curran, Kay

Cummings, Vita Osojnik, and Jose Limon. He is currently the Assistant Teaching Professor of Dance at Oxford College of Emory University. Additionally, he is still working professional artist. He has presented work, with his long-time collaborator Corian Ellisor, in NYC, Houston, and Atlanta. He has also had the pleasure of returning to his theatrical roots by being a puppeteer in Scottie Rowell’s SuperCello! (which was performed at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington DC) and most recently in an immersive production of Pinocchio of 7Stages in Atlanta last year.
